INTRODUCTION

There are so many different options, strategies and tactics available for making money online these days. How are you to know which one is most likely to bring in the profits, you want for your online business?

Some of the most successful Internet marketers in the world are very well aware that the key to making consistently good profits online is to stay ahead of hot trends.

The tools available for operating your online business change fast. In order to ensure you're dominating your own market, you need to learn fast and effective ways to leverage hot trends as they emerge.

The best part of including this type of leverage in your own marketing strategy is that it is.

In fact, it's very possible to make some fast cash using completely free online tools that can give you the edge. You'll be able to pinpoint emerging trends as they happen. You'll be able to assess their value to your business.

From there, you will be able to leverage those hot trends for your own benefit and then reap the profits. You can rinse and repeat the process for any new trend you recognize, instantly boosting your online business revenue. All of this can be done without spending a dime.

Are you ready to get started?

WHAT ARE HOT TRENDS?

Hot trends are those topics that have become wildly popular with a section of the population very quickly. These types of topics tend to be short lived, but they're intensely popular while they're still hot.

This is the primary reason it's so important to jump on any opportunity while hundreds of thousands of people are still searching for information about that topic.

As the need for information on a hot topic increases, it's important you're in a strong position to cash in on that popularity.

IMPORTANCE OF HOT TRENDS

There has been some debate about whether you should create a 'evergreen' online business that lasts for the long term or whether it's worth chasing trends that are currently hot for now.

Before we get into leveraging emerging trends for your own profit, let's look at the reality of online business for a moment.

If you honestly hope to succeed in online business, it's important that you have a strong business plan in place. This means you will need your 'core' evergreen online business operating and doing well.

However, in order for any business to succeed it's important to never put all your eggs in one basket. In business terms this is called 'broadening your debtor base'.

You may be earning decent money from your primary or core business. But you really don't want your entire enterprise relying on that one single source of income. If that stopped, your business would die a slow death.

Instead, it's vitally important to leverage what's running really hot right now, to keep new revenue churning into your accounts all the time. This lets your evergreen business grow into a profitable authority site over time, and earns you huge profits from hot topics while you're doing that.

Cashflow is the life-blood of any business. If you can find ways to leverage hot trends and emerging topics and then monetize them for your own benefit, your business will be pulling in the profits.

With the right system, this should only take a small amount of time to implement out of your regular working day. Your hot trends bring in the cash and leave you with more time to work on your core business overall.

Of course, you also have the option of working on this option alone to earn money online if you prefer. Once you have your systems in place, you should be able to generate profits just by repeating the same steps over and over with each new hot topic you find.

MAXIMUM GAIN, MINIMAL EFFORT

The whole key to making hot trends work for your online business is to find effective ways to maximize the returns you get for the minimal amount of effort.

So many Internet marketers spend hours and hours every day working hard on promoting their businesses. In reality, if you set up your marketing strategies correctly in the first place you should only need to spend a short amount of time building up your income.

All you need to do is set up a system that lets you find and research new trends as they emerge. Again, this can be done easily using free tools available online.

Once you've found those emerging trends, you need to check the keywords. When you're sure that new hot trend is potentially profitable for you, go ahead and set up a free blog. This shouldn't take you very long at all.

Add some monetization to your blog and you're off and running.

From there, it should only take a few minutes a day to promote your hot trends blogs using back links and other marketing strategies.

You get the benefit of pulling profits from topics that are running red-hot. Best of all, it should only take you a short amount of time to get it going.

ORGANIZATION IS KEY

Obviously, when the entire process is condensed into a couple of sentences it sounds really quick and easy.

In reality, there are people out there who spend months on this process alone. Don't let this happen to you.

Instead, work on organizing your tools so they're always ready to go. Bookmark social media and social networking sites. Organize the documentation and tracking spreadsheets you want to use in advance.

Create accounts for those free research and tracking tools and bookmark those sites so you can find them again quickly later.

Once these things are set up and ready to go, you can simply fill them in whenever you've noticed a hot trend emerging.

If you're serious about making money and cashing in any emerging hot trends, it's important you are organized enough to take advantage of any opportunity as it crops up.

Imagine if you actually sat down, found a ragingly popular hot trend and then had to spend hours and hours setting it all up? Then you'd have to work on your marketing efforts and your keyword research before you even attracted one visitor.

By comparison, if you organize all your documents, spreadsheets, software, online accounts and even bookmarks to your free blog log-in pages, you're ready to go at any time.

Being organized in your online business is the best possible way to ensure you're ready to dominate any hot trend before the competition jump on it.

CHOOSING PROFITABLE HOT TRENDS

If you look in some of the free online tools available for hot trends (like Google Hot Trends www.google.com/trends/hottrends), you'll see that some of the most popular search terms in the world are listed there. These change very regularly! As the topics that people search for changes, so do the hot topics. Their popularity will rise and fall.

Sometimes those searches will be related to movie stars or other celebrities. You may also find news items listed there as they arise and reach the public's attention.

While some of these look intensely popular right now, take the time to work out how hot the trend really is, or whether it will be gone again in two days' time. Ideally, you want to choose a hot trend that is still gaining in popularity and likely to be around for a while.

There are so many analytical tools available online that you have lots of options to show you what's hot and what's not. Use those tools to your advantage.

USING HOT TRENDS

Once your research is done and you've found a hot topic you think you can run with, set up a free blog. There are lots of platforms that let you do this, but Blogger is about the quickest and easiest for your purposes here.

This is a very simple platform that lets you get a website up and live on the Internet in just minutes. Of course, you will need content to fill your blog, and this is where most people cringe.

Think about it like this: if you find an interesting news story related to your hot topic, add a link to the original site and quote the parts you find interesting about it on your blog.

Then type a few sentences about your opinion of that topic and your blog post is complete. Encourage visitors to leave comments about their own opinions as well. This gets people interacting, which can boost traffic for your blog nicely.

Do this a few times, but don't publish all of your posts at once. Blogger lets you schedule your posts so they're released at intervals. Your blog will have new content added to it automatically over a period of time this way, without you having to spend time later doing it.

This helps your marketing efforts overall and keeps people coming back to your site to see what else you have to say.

MONETIZING HOT TRENDS

From there, you also want to know whether you can monetize that trend to maximize your profit.

Monetizing your site doesn't have to be difficult. You can choose to add Google AdSense ads to your blogs or you can add Amazon Affiliate links or eBay affiliate links or links for any other affiliate program you find offering relevant ads.

The key to this really is to be sure that the products or keywords you're promoting in your monetization efforts are CLOSELY related to the hot topic keywords on your blogs. This really matters!

You see, if you choose a famous young up-and-coming celebrity as your hot trend and you promote adult diapers on your blog, you're really not going to make any sales. Ever.

The people who end up visiting your blog are interested in the hot topic at hand. They want information relating to that topic and they will be interested in products related to it.

If you can match up a hot topic with a good source of monetization, there's no reason why you shouldn't make lots of profit from this tactic.

CONCLUSION

This short report should open your eyes as to how easy it can be to earn fast cash from emerging hot trends. It's also assumed that you're already into Internet marketing and you have access to a range of free analytical tools for your business.

It makes no difference whether you want to do this as a part-time cash cow or whether you want to use it as a way to boost your online business income overall.

The whole point of this report is to show you that it can be done. Setting up your systems and your analytical tools may take you a little time, but it's worth the effort in the long run.

Look for ways to stay ahead of the competition and think about options you have for organizing your business to make the whole process as fast as possible for you.

If you can do these things or find a system that gives you a detailed outline of which steps to take, you should find it's quite easy to make money online with very little effort.

Good luck.
